Guidance Information

- Legislation relevant to this unit standard includes but is not limited to:
 - Health and Safety at Work Act 2015;
 - Fisheries Act 1996;
 - Resource Management Act 1991;
 - and any subsequent amendments.
- Definition
Aquaculture associated activity refers to any activity that involves water and an aquatic species for which a resource consent is required but may not necessarily involve the cultivation or farming of the species. Examples of these include: marine or freshwater research, holding of an aquatic species for sale, etc.
- It is required that tikanga is applied in consultation with tangata whenua to validate activities.
- For each assessment, the tikanga and kawa related to this unit standard refer to the tikanga and kawa of the hapū or iwi, who have endorsed the assessor.
