

National Certificate in Whakairo (Tūturu) (Level 4) with optional strands in Aho Tuatahi, and Aho Tuarua

Level 4

Credits 119 or 144-154 depending on strand

Purpose

This is an introductory whakairo qualification that can lead to the National Diplomas in Whakairo at Levels 5 and 6 [Ref: 0745 and 0746]. The compulsory section recognises the underpinning knowledge and skills required for whakairo. The elective section recognises that the essential practical skills required for competence may be gained through secondary and tertiary study.

The two optional strands are designed to encourage people to broaden their knowledge and acquire additional skills that will enable them to apply or extend their core whakairo abilities. This structure allows providers the flexibility of tailoring programmes to meet individual skill needs for their region or client group. The minimum credit requirements for the strands specify the level of skills, knowledge, and competence expected of role holders. Aho Tuatahi recognises complementary skills at an elementary level. Aho Tuarua recognises more advanced skills that could complement applications of whakairo in business environments.
