

National Diploma in Whakairo (Level 6)

Level 6

Credits 120

Purpose

This qualification is designed to encourage the enhancement and maintain the integrity of whakairo. The emphasis is on the practical aspects of whakairo.

People awarded this qualification are able to demonstrate the necessary knowledge, understanding and capabilities required for selecting, preparing and sculpting three-dimensional forms. The first elective section allows for the development of whakairo practices that are consistent with the lore of their own or a chosen iwi or hapu. The second elective section is designed to provide recognition of the acquisition of complementary knowledge and skills required in the practice of whakairo.

This is an advanced qualification that builds on the National Diploma in Whakairo (Level 5) [Ref: 0745] and may lead to higher education in related fields such as Māori studies, education, arts, crafts, and design as a whakairo practitioner.

Special Notes

People may commence training and assessment towards this qualification without having been awarded the National Diploma in Whakairo (Level 5) [Ref: 0745]. However, they will not be awarded this qualification until they have been awarded the National Diploma in Whakairo (Level 5) [Ref: 0745], or can provide evidence for the prior assessment against the standards of that qualification.

People may apply to accredited providers for recognition of prior learning.
