Guidance Information

- 1 The basic principles underpinning tikanga are common, but while there are some constants, the details of performance of tikanga, and their explanation, may differ. These differences may be at a whānau, hapū, iwi, marae or rohe level. The context of the learning should include the tikanga of the local mana whenua (if capable) but learning others' tikanga is also encouraged.
- 2 The resource support listed is given as a guide only and is not intended to be in any way prescriptive. It is acknowledged that different areas may have their own written and unwritten repositories of knowledge relevant to this unit standard. Resource support may include, but is not limited to:
Appropriate websites.
Kelly, L, (1980). Tainui, (Christchurch, NZ: Capper Press).
Stafford, D. M., (1967). Te Arawa: A History of the Arawa People, (Auckland, NZ: Reed Books).
- 3 All sources of information must be referenced.
