Format of the assessment

There will be three sections to the exam paper.

Candidates will be required to answer three questions, one from each section.

There will be 3 questions in Section A, three questions in Section B, and one question in Section C.

Questions in Section A focus principally on aspects or elements of art.

Questions in Section B require a response to the broader issues of art history.

The question in Section C will require critical analysis of the given text. Candidates will be required to identify and explain key ideas, using specific art works to support their critical analysis.

In order to demonstrate depth and breadth of knowledge, answers should include detailed analysis of at least THREE art works.

Candidates are advised not to repeat information across their answers.

Resources or information supplied

There will be a question booklet and a separate answer booklet.
