Purpose of this Report

The purpose of this external evaluation and review report is to provide a public statement about the Tertiary Education Organisation's (TEO) educational performance and capability in self-assessment. It forms part of the accountability process required by Government to inform investors, the public, students, prospective students, communities, employers, and other interested parties. It is also intended to be used by the TEO itself for quality improvement purposes.

Brief description of TEO

Location: Browns Bay, Auckland
Type: Private Training Establishment
Size: Small; 161 students at time of visit.
Sites: Two campuses in Browns Bay

Unique New Zealand started in 1989 as a guardianship, homestay, and English language organisation and now caters for international students, new residents, and tour groups. Courses provided include: General English, English for Academic Purposes/International English Language Testing System (IELTS) Preparation, Exam Preparation (Test of English as a Foreign Language -TOEFL), Business and Work Skills Development, English for Further Studies (for 13-17 year olds), and Junior English (for students aged 8-12).

Unique New Zealand organises a homestay service and holds the first certificate issued for the Code of Practice Certificate for the Pastoral Care of International Students. The school has about 200 students at any one time, 40-50 per cent of whom are school age. Some of the courses are only two weeks long. The main campus is on the beach at Browns Bay and a second campus is half a block away on the main shopping street.

The student advisors each serve a regional market and form the backbone of the school's organisation. The students are their customers. The academic advisors arrange all the services, from airport pick-up through to accommodation, induction, instruction, and activities, so that each student is assigned to a specific advisor. The director of studies, the operations manager, homestay coordinator, and activities manager in effect provide services to the advisors and their customers, the students.

Executive Summary

Statement of confidence on educational performance

NZQA is Highly Confident in the educational performance of Unique New Zealand.

Key reasons for this are:

- Students at Unique New Zealand achieve excellent outcomes from the experience. The school collates all information in a well-designed database and the reports generated from this show excellent rates of progress through the five different levels of English classes available. Students meet or exceed the outcomes outlined in the enrolment process. These are very good outcomes.
- The organisation's self-assessment and the evaluation team's observations show that the students value the skills, knowledge, and attitudes they develop at Unique New Zealand. The school receives daily unsolicited email feedback from ex-students, parents, agents, and other local stakeholders such as homestay parents and tourism operators. This feedback shows that the teaching and support is valued and matches the needs of learners and other stakeholders.
- The tutors at Unique New Zealand are experienced and well qualified and staff turnover is very low. The school has a formal system of staff appraisal including self-appraisal and classroom observation. Recent work on learning styles has been a focus of staff development. This has produced changes to teaching practice and improved teacher performance.
- Guardianship is Unique New Zealand's kaupapa. The student advisors are the backbone of the organisation. Every student cultural cohort has a student advisor who understands their cultural background and their first language and these advisors take round-the-clock responsibility for student well-being. Students feel well supported and are confident, happy, and well cared for.
- Unique New Zealand has a clear vision, focuses on student achievement, and has a clearly articulated strategic plan to facilitate this achievement.

Statement of confidence on capability in self-assessment

NZQA is Confident in the capability in self-assessment of Unique New Zealand. Key reasons for this are:

- There are very good systems in place for assessing learner needs and assessing needs and trends in the international student market.
- The strategic plan sets out a clear timetable for continuous self-assessment. There are good evaluation systems in place for gathering regular data on learning, teaching, and all aspects of student support including the homestay system.

- Comprehensive information is captured in the database and time is set for meetings to analyse the information, and plan improvements. Improvements have been made to scheduling of classes, availability of facilities and staff in the afternoons, and provision of larger screens for the viewing of English DVDs.
- There is considerable evidence that Unique New Zealand uses the information gained from the various self-assessment activities to feed into strategic and business planning leading to positive change. The new pictorial student handbook and the careful mix of cultures within the classes is an example of a relevant, practical improvement.

TEO response

Unique NZ has confirmed the factual accuracy of this report.

Basis for External Evaluation and Review

Self-assessment and external evaluation and review are requirements of course approval and accreditation (under sections 258 and 259 of the Education Act 1989) for all TEOs that are entitled to apply. The requirements are set through the course approval and accreditation criteria and policies established by NZQA under section 253(1)(d) and (e) of the Act.

In addition, for registered private training establishments, the criteria and policies for their registration require self-assessment and external evaluation and review at an organisational level in addition to the individual courses they own or provide. These criteria and policies are set by NZQA under section 253(1)(ca) of the Act.

NZQA is responsible for ensuring TEOs continue to comply with the policies and criteria after the initial granting of approval and accreditation of courses and/or registration. The Institutes of Technology and Polytechnics Quality (ITPQuality) is responsible, under delegated authority from NZQA, for compliance by the polytechnic sector, and the New Zealand Vice-Chancellors' Committee (NZVCC) has statutory responsibility for compliance by universities.

This report reflects the findings and conclusions of the external evaluation and review process, conducted according to the policies and criteria approved by the NZQA Board.

The report identifies strengths and areas for improvement in terms of the organisation's educational performance and capability in self-assessment.

External evaluation and review reports are one contributing piece of information in determining future funding decisions where the organisation is a funded TEO subject to an investment plan agreed with the Tertiary Education Commission.

External evaluation and review reports are public information and are available from the NZQA website (www.nzqa.govt.nz).

Findings

The conclusions in this report are derived using a standard process and are based on a targeted sample of the organisation's activities.

Information relevant to the external evaluation and review process, including the publication Policy and Guidelines for the Conduct of External Evaluation and Review, is available at: <http://www.nzqa.govt.nz/for-providers/keydocs/index.html>

Outline of scope

The agreed scope of the external evaluation and review of Unique New Zealand included English for Academic Purposes/IELTS Preparation.

This is a six to 12-week course currently running four classes of about ten learners per class and provides a good snapshot of the organisation. In addition, the following mandatory focus areas were also included:

- Governance, management, and strategy
- Student support (including international students).

Part 1: Answers to Key Evaluation Questions across the organisation

This section provides a picture of the TEO's performance in terms of the outcomes achieved and the key contributing processes. Performance judgements are based on the answers to key evaluation questions across the focus areas sampled. This section also provides a judgement about the extent to which the organisation uses self-assessment information to understand its own performance and bring about improvements, i.e. capability in self-assessment.

1.1 How well do learners achieve?

The rating for performance in relation to this key evaluation question is Excellent.

The rating for capability in self-assessment for this key evaluation question is Excellent.

Context

The primary achievement of students at Unique New Zealand is acquiring English language skills. They also experience New Zealand through Unique New Zealand's activity programme and the homestay experience.

Explanation

Students at Unique New Zealand achieve excellent outcomes from the experience. Unique New Zealand collates all information in a well-designed database, and the reports generated from this database show excellent rates of progress through the five different levels of English classes available. This evaluation has confirmed that students achieve significant improvements on their starting points. Students meet or exceed the outcomes outlined in the enrolment process. Students' progress is measured weekly and teachers confer with the director of studies to assist and maximise the students learning. From its self-assessment, Unique New Zealand knows that its customers are happy with the outcomes and this is confirmed by student feedback, referrals, and repeat business.

The evaluation team were impressed by the English language skills of the advanced class. Improvement in their IELTS scores is the critical measure for students in this class. Again the database reports show that Unique New Zealand students have excellent results. A typical student had already reached an advanced level, from being unable to speak English only eight months ago. Students have transferred from other tertiary institutes because of the school's reputation for effective teaching and high success rates and their success has led to other students choosing Unique New Zealand first.

Students experience New Zealand and acquire knowledge of other cultures through studying at Unique New Zealand. Homestay hosts are encouraged to include students in occasions and outings. The homestay evaluation forms confirm that there is a lot of activity in this area. Unique New Zealand encourages students to socialise and get involved in the Browns Bay community. Students are grouped with other nationalities and thus acquire knowledge of other cultures. Using their native language is discouraged. A typical student from Asia who came to Unique New Zealand with little idea where she might go is now using her newly acquired English skills to study in a new field in Denmark.

Unique New Zealand benchmarks with other English language schools with similar cohorts and similar programmes. Unique New Zealand is actively engaged with English NZ, and staff audit other English language schools. Staff regard this as an important responsibility and part of their professional obligation. It enables them to share best practice and produces information for self-assessment. Unique New Zealand also markets overseas as part of a joint English NZ team. This benchmarking and joint activity gives staff and students the benefits of the knowledge and skills of the whole English NZ community.

1.2 What is the value of the outcomes for key stakeholders, including learners?

The rating for performance in relation to this key evaluation question is Excellent.

The rating for capability in self-assessment for this key evaluation question is Good.

Context

Unique New Zealand is a student-centred organisation. Its key stakeholders are its students and staff, its overseas markets, homestay families, and the Browns Bay community. The organisation's self-assessment shows that the students value the skills, knowledge, and attitudes they develop at Unique New Zealand. The school gets unsolicited email feedback from ex-students, parents, agents, and other local stakeholders such as homestay parents and tourism operators, which shows widespread satisfaction with outcomes. Unique New Zealand has developed good markets in Japan, Asia, South America, and Saudi Arabia and receives positive feedback on outcomes from these regions.

Explanation

The vision of Unique New Zealand is “to prepare people for success in the modern English-speaking world”. All students are enabled to use the English language to the level of a proficiency they require, be it for conversation, travel, getting a job, or attaining an IELTS level for professional registration. Many students obtain jobs and work visas and permanent residency.

Unique New Zealand evaluates student satisfaction closely. Every three months feedback questionnaires are administered three weeks before term-end so that the information can be collated and analysed in time to give classes a constructive response to their feedback. Students are made aware of changes and improvements.

Affection for Unique New Zealand and Browns Bay and general goodwill toward New Zealand are longer-term societal outcomes of Unique New Zealand’s programmes. The small community of Browns Bay benefits economically and socially from the cultural mix of the students. There is a Unique New Zealand group on Facebook which keeps graduates and staff in touch and gives useful information on graduates’ progress. Staff also receive unsolicited emails from past students daily. Those with information useful for self-assessment are discussed and filed.

The well-being of students is paramount. Student advisors are responsible for all student matters and this system works well. The homestay experience is closely monitored and has positive outcomes. The learners gain confidence in their ability to mix with different cultures because they can use a common language.

There is potential for knowledge creation through drawing information from the excellent database that Unique New Zealand holds. It may be possible to research hypotheses on the rates at which various students acquire skills in reading, speaking, listening, and writing English and identify the major factors. The results could inform teaching and be a positive factor in marketing, as individual and cultural factors could be addressed.

Unique New Zealand is continuously involved with its stakeholders. Current students are top of the agenda; the staffroom is a very communal space and tutors have daily folders which hold rolls, lesson plans, and other important information for the day. The organisation interacts with local shopkeepers, helping them and their relatives with English instruction, and is involved with the Browns Bay Business Association. The director, operations manager, and student advisors are continuously interacting with contacts overseas and visit frequently to improve their understanding of their overseas markets and meet the needs of these markets.

1.3 How well do programmes and activities match the needs of learners and other stakeholders?

The rating for performance in relation to this key evaluation question is Excellent.

The rating for capability in self-assessment for this key evaluation question is Excellent.

Context

As a result of self-assessment Unique New Zealand has implemented a placement and assessment system run by the director of studies. All students are interviewed and tested for English language ability on arrival and placed in the class appropriate to their level, age, and nationality. The director of studies endeavours to get a mix of nationalities in every class. Unique New Zealand maintains close links with the regions its international students come from.

Explanation

Unique New Zealand constantly assesses its programmes to ensure they are current and meeting students' needs. Classes are available at least five different ability levels, and as the classes are small students receive individual instruction to meet their needs. New textbooks are introduced as they are updated and up-to-date IELTS standards are used.

It was clear that the students are fully engaged in their learning. The programme balance of classwork in the morning and time in the afternoon for self-directed learning works well. Resources for self-directed learning appear very current and relevant. There are plenty of computers available and wireless internet access enables learning achievement. Alumni retain computer access and the main campus is a centre for after-school activity and study. Unique New Zealand clearly meets an international student community need.

The school encourages students to enjoy a wide range of experiences and employs a full-time activities coordinator to facilitate these. Activities include: playing sport, paddling the kayaks stored at the main campus, meeting people in a smart local bar each Tuesday, skiing, and visiting New Zealand's notable tourist centres such as Rotorua, Bay of Islands, Coromandel etc. Students were enthusiastic about these activities and how they helped with their language and their understanding of New Zealand.

Unique New Zealand's close involvement with English NZ keeps them up to date with innovations in English language skill teaching and testing.

1.4 How effective is the teaching?

The rating for performance in relation to this key evaluation question is Excellent.

The rating for capability in self-assessment for this key evaluation question is Excellent.

Context

The tutors at Unique New Zealand are experienced and well qualified and staff turnover is very low. Tutors are financially supported to attain qualifications such as the Certificate in English Language Teaching to Adults. They attend professional development courses and conferences. Classes are small, with a maximum of 12 people per class.

Explanation

All the students the review team consulted with were very happy with the teachers, commenting favourably on their availability, flexibility, and knowledge. This is confirmed by Unique's self-assessment. And to complement that, all the tutors consulted enjoy working at Unique New Zealand. The school has a student-centred family atmosphere. The small classes enable the teachers to give the students individual attention. Teachers appeared very comfortable in their class environments, which were innovative, with the rooms having glass windows to the corridors. This enables all staff the opportunity to observe and be observed, a system that is often used in the USA. Teachers collaborate and support each other and monitor each others' work casually as well as formally.

The school has a formal system of teaching appraisal including self-appraisal and classroom observation. Staff meetings include professional development material and activities where notes are kept and actions are noted as a result of any outcomes identified. Learning styles has been a recent theme and all spoke of the insights and skills they had obtained from having this development work led by various staff members. This has led to improvements in teaching and learning and given the staff a vitalising focus.

There are many formative assessments at all levels. Staff have an excellent grasp of their students' attainments and students can be moved to other classes to suit their ability and ensure the best possible rate of learning. The advanced class follow a very specific curriculum to ensure the IELTS scopes and required levels are covered and at the time of this review they were having practice IELTS-style tests twice every week. Unique New Zealand has very good IELTS outcomes for its students.

Practical and practice-based learning takes place. There are a variety of facilities available to assist student learning. Students can work online using the available wireless facility. Other activities include listening to music, viewing movies and plays, engaging in activities, games, word games, and interviews. Generally, theory is included in the morning sessions and practice is continued in the afternoon. Students practise their learning with the teacher using different active strategies. Comprehensive feedback and ongoing support is available and given by the teachers.

Students give evaluations of the learning experience every quarter. For those who prefer it, these can be completed in their own language and with the assistance of their student advisor if desired. Students can write their comments in their own language which are then interpreted following collection. Final evaluations are held three weeks out from end-of-term. There was evidence that any serious teaching and learning or support issues are dealt with quickly.

1.5 How well are learners guided and supported?

The rating for performance in relation to this key evaluation question is Excellent.

The rating for capability in self-assessment for this key evaluation question is Excellent.

Context

As Unique New Zealand has evolved from its origins in guardianship and homestay it has built a robust system of student support. The role of student advisers has already been highlighted. Staff at Unique New Zealand have developed and published a comprehensive yet compact pictorial student handbook. The website is well set up and study information is very good.

Explanation

Guardianship is Unique New Zealand's kaupapa. The coordinator is very experienced and has many options for meeting particular needs. Both students and hosts evaluate the experience formally, and the coordinator holds quarterly evening information meetings for hosts. This embedded self-assessment has helped the homestay process to evolve into a comprehensive and caring support system.

The advisor structure ensures that all students have someone to go to who knows them well and is ultimately responsible for their well-being. Unique New Zealand has the capacity to support the student in their own language. All the advisors can give expert guidance within the programme structure if required. All Unique New Zealand staff are very aware that differing students have differing needs and many staff are able to speak another language other than English. Students were extremely complimentary about the support offered by all staff. Pathways and staircasing are handled with sensitivity and are carefully monitored. Students are prudently allocated to the most appropriate class on arrival and their progress is closely monitored. Teachers are very aware of where the student is aiming and staircasing needs are captured well. Extra tuition is available if required.

The Browns Bay situation brings intrinsic benefits. Most students live in Browns Bay or just a short bus ride from the school. This means that students can comfortably stay at the school after hours and learn from each other, use the computer teaching packages, surf the web, or try the real surf. Students have easy recreation facilities of the beach, access to local community sports, and many businesses offering student discounts. Unique New Zealand's students are accepted and acknowledged in the community.

1.6 How effective are governance and management in supporting educational achievement?

The rating for performance in relation to this key evaluation question is Excellent.

The rating for capability in self-assessment for this key evaluation question is Good.

Context

The governance and management group consists of the director, the director of studies and the operations manager. There is no governance board though the director has a network of industry professionals for counsel and advice. Unique New Zealand has a clear vision, well supported by goals and strategy.

Explanation

The vision of Unique New Zealand is “to prepare people for success in the modern English-speaking world”. The company goal is “to continue as a profitable and responsible business” and the enabler is “to develop and maintain high quality programmes for all students”. The strategy is well set out and linked to information on the web and in Unique New Zealand’s database. The strategy is clear, well set out and accessible to all staff. It includes many sections that involve systematic self-assessment.

The director has developed a very comprehensive computer data base which supports the activities, outcomes, student information, and financial accounts of the school. The information is thoughtfully integrated and can readily reveal immediate information or trends across time. Management could immediately generate a report listing all 161 students enrolled at the time of the EER. One was a permanent New Zealand resident, so there were 160 international students of whom two were on scholarships. The information generated by this excellent system follows and supports educational achievement as well as guiding business decisions.

Communication between management, tutors, and students is excellent. Staff share a common room next to the director of studies and prefer to work at a common table. They have daily teaching folders set up for them and the director of studies includes weekly “headlines” in these, which are effectively an internal information brochure for staff. This communal attitude is continued in the reception area where there is no receptionist. Visitors may be greeted and looked after by any student advisor, one of the co-ordinators, the operations manager, or even the director. All staff are alert to the need to look after students and visitors and communicate freely.

Staff the evaluation team spoke to were very happy with Unique New Zealand’s recruitment, induction, and performance management processes. They enjoy their work and staff turnover is low. Staff appraisals are undertaken thoroughly and are outcomes focussed. Formal professional development has been discussed above and there is considerable informal professional development such as including staff on marketing trips. This increases staff awareness of the whole business, reinforces the vision and goal, and emphasises how effective marketing supports educational achievement.

Part 2: Performance in focus areas

This section reports significant findings in each focus area, not already covered in Part 1.

2.1 Focus area: Governance, management, and strategy

The rating in this focus area for educational performance is Excellent.

The rating for capability in self-assessment for this focus area is Good.

Context

See section 1.6 How effective are governance and management in supporting educational achievement?

Explanation

As described in section 1.6 Unique New Zealand has a clear vision and a comprehensive strategic plan which ensures that student-oriented purposes are generated, revised, and communicated to the whole organisation. Learner achievement is a central focus for governance and management. Information from the comprehensive database indicates that the schools' policies and practices are meeting the defined goal.

Unique has maintained itself for 20 years as a profitable business, without government funding, by being thorough, robust, and authentic in its self-assessment. It not only provides quality language training but also contributes to the community by being a satisfying workplace for staff and by supporting a homestay system. Unique New Zealand estimates that about $1 million flows into the Browns Bay community annually as a direct result of its presence and activities.

Over the years self-assessment has enabled Unique New Zealand to undertake new activities and move into new markets to maintain profitability. Its data has enabled it to respond quickly to the ebb and flow of international students from different markets and their changing needs. Their systems have alerted them to the need and opportunity to develop new markets in regions such as South America and the Middle East and to develop new products. Unique now offers a range of "English plus activities" which are filled to capacity over this summer. It has also begun a Work Skills Development programme to meet an identified need and there is promising interest in its English plus Rugby programme to be run next July.

The school is well maintained, neat and tidy, and well resourced. The use and allocation of resources are included in the self-assessment process and are efficiently used. The main "technology investment" is in texts, computer aided instruction, and computer/video hardware. These are all assessed regularly and replaced or updated in a measured way.

Delegations and decision-making are well managed. There are strategies in place for when the director is absent overseas. The director was away for 135 days in 2008 and staff got on with their jobs and managed the day to day business of the school in a way that was entirely consistent with the vision and goal.

There are twice-yearly meetings with English NZ, and Unique New Zealand markets overseas in conjunction with other English NZ members, and staff also audit other members. These joint activities give excellent benchmarking information.

All senior staff meet quarterly to assess outcomes and effectiveness. This is seen as an important time allocated for reflection on the organisation. This builds consensus which allows agile and flexible responses to governance and management decisions if required. Management now see the need to restructure to meet changing international student demands. Trends show that the guardianship business is declining so management is considering relinquishing this role.

2.2 Focus area: Support for International Students

The rating in this focus area for educational performance is Excellent.

The rating for capability in self-assessment for this focus area is Excellent.

Context

See section 1.5 How well are learners guided and supported?

Explanation

Governance and management are clear that student support is a number one priority across all aspects of student learning. Student support is vital and adds value to the outcomes from the programmes. All the student advisors and the homestay coordinator are continuously on call. Staff are always available for students and homestay families. Unique New Zealand is very conscious that the students want, and should have, a good experience of life and learning in NZ. The school's self-assessment shows that these systems are working.

The school and the teachers collect a lot of information about the students and use this information well to inform teaching and learning and required support systems. Teachers are aware of students' starting point and where they want to get to. Teachers have comprehensive cultural knowledge, are aware of the student's learning styles, and acknowledge the previous academic attainment of their students. Many students are already well qualified academically and have highly developed learning strategies that they can use to accelerate their acquisition of English language skills.

There is a lot of evidence that students are proud of their learning at Unique New Zealand. Some students bring their whole families back for further learning. Graduation speeches and photos are testament to the quality of the experience and the real feeling of family which is developed.

2.3 Focus area: English for Academic Purposes/ IELTS Preparation

The rating in this focus area for educational performance is Excellent.

The rating for capability in self-assessment for this focus area is Good.

Context

English for Academic Purposes/International English Language Testing System (IELTS) Preparation is the senior course run at Unique New Zealand. The course is run largely for students who need a specified IELTS score for access to further education or for professional registration, although some of the students have less specific goals.

Explanation

The results of this programme are currently the first line on the homepage of www.unz.co.nz which reflects the importance of this programme to the school and to international students. Learners achieve well in IELTS as a result of thoughtful and skilful teaching. Students also gain in confidence and increase their cultural awareness as they are paired for work and practice interviews with students of different nationalities.

Students value gaining the IELTS score that they need and also the experience of learning at Unique New Zealand. The evaluation team greatly enjoyed talking to the class of students. They interacted very freely and comfortably with each other and with the evaluation team and were clearly proud of the progress they had made while still conscious of the effort and accuracy required to attain their goals. The evaluation team was impressed by the students' grasp of English.

The course clearly matches student needs precisely, and they particularly appreciate the frequency of the practice tests.

Two very experienced teachers take the class and the students were fulsome in their praise of their ability to prepare them for the test and yet to be flexible and make the study interesting and practical. The teachers had shown them how to make progress in learning English by listening to song lyrics, watching videos, and setting conversation goals with "native speakers". The computer access centre was also seen as a great aid to learning.

All the students spoke highly of having a student advisor who understood their cultural roots. A student from Chile expressed it as, "Each country has their own guy". Those in homestay praised the experience and appreciated that the co-ordinator had worked to find them the most appropriate home. The students also spoke of the support they got from their classmates which is a tribute to the family atmosphere created.

Statements of Confidence

The statements of confidence are derived from the findings within and across the focus areas. A four-step scale is used: highly confident, confident, not yet confident, not confident.

Statement of confidence on educational performance

NZQA is highly confident in the educational performance of Unique New Zealand Ltd

Statement of confidence on capability in self-assessment

NZQA is confident in the capability in self-assessment of Unique New Zealand Ltd

Actions Required and Recommendations

Further actions

The next external evaluation and review will take place in accordance with NZQA's regular scheduling policy and is likely to occur within four years of the date of this report.

Recommendations

It is recommended that Unique New Zealand Limited

- include more benchmarking or external reference information in its self-assessment, and
- gather more systematic information about graduates to feed back into its processes or marketing as appropriate.
