INSTRUCTIONS

In this examination, you are required to analyse an international health issue perceptively.

An international health issue is one currently affecting the well-being of significant numbers of people in a country (or countries) other than, or as well as, New Zealand, and which is a matter of public concern.

The table below identifies two international health topics. Select ONE of these that you have studied and tick the box alongside.

International Health Topics	Tick <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> ONE
The continued high rate of HIV transmission and/or the care of people living with HIV/AIDS in Sub-Saharan Africa, OR South East Asia, OR the Pacific	<input type="checkbox"/>
Colonisation and the health of indigenous people in relation to a particular health context, eg alcohol use	<input type="checkbox"/>

Identify a significant health issue of international concern, within this topic, that you will use to answer ALL parts of the question in this booklet.

Answer parts (a) to (c) on pages 3–6 as they relate to your named issue, using detailed evidence such as examples, quotations, and/or data from current (after 2005), credible sources, to support your analysis.

(c) Recommend TWO strategies to bring about more equitable outcomes for those affected by your named health issue.

For EACH recommended strategy, discuss:

- how the two major determinants of health from (b) impact on people's well-being
- how the strategy will address the TWO major determinants of health from (b) influencing the issue
- how outcomes for those affected by your named health issue will be more equitable.

Support your answer with detailed evidence.
