QUESTION

Patrick's Scenario

Ms Campbell is a Biology teacher at a local high school. She has been working at the school for 10 years and knows many of her students very well. Lately, she has noticed a large number of students in her Year 13 class are under a lot of pressure to perform in several areas of their school and home life. She is concerned about their levels of stress in the lead up to NCEA exams in November. All Ms Campbell's students live in a close, 'tight-knit' community, where they feel safe and secure, and have many friends and neighbours.

Patrick is one of the Year 13 students in Ms Campbell's Biology class. His dad recently passed away, so his mum is now a single parent to him and his two younger siblings. Patrick feels the need to help support his family, and step up and be 'the man' of the household. He really wants to do well in his schooling so he can go to university to study electrical engineering next year, but his part-time job at the local supermarket, and the times he has to look after his younger siblings while his mum works, are affecting the time he can spend studying. He often has to miss days at school to look after his siblings and has missed some of Ms Campbell's classes lately. He has been getting headaches most days and is finding it hard to sleep at night. His friends have noticed he has been quite withdrawn lately and that he is absent from school a lot.

- (a) Explain, in detail, the positive and negative influences that are likely to affect an adolescent's ability to cope with stress.
