Resource A: Determinants of Health

Many factors combine together to affect the health of individuals and communities.

These things could include a range of environmental, economic, political, cultural, or social factors.

Resource B: Aims of the World Health Organisation

Equitable health outcomes for all people is one of the overriding aims of the World Health Organisation.

These factors sometimes single-handedly, but more frequently combined, impact on the basic human rights of all people to be able to enjoy a healthy lifestyle, regardless of where they live, or what sector of society they come from.
