The main body of the page is filled with grey rectangular boxes of varying sizes, which serve as a template for writing answers to the questions.
