The Hospitality Standards Institute has revised and rolled over the unit standard listed above.

Date new versions published

September 2010

Planned review date

December 2015

Reason for the revision

This unit standard has been revised and rolled over to differentiate it from the newly-developed unit standard 26369, Manage a quick service restaurant. The types of management roles in quick service restaurants vary across the different brands however, there is general agreement that staff responsible for the day-to-day running of a restaurant require knowledge and skills that are different from those required by someone who has manager or regional management responsibilities. Changes have been made to the focus of the unit standard to clarify the differences which were agreed with the main stakeholders in April 2010.

Main changes resulting from the revision

- The title was amended to better reflect the outcomes of the unit standard.
- The purpose statement was amended to reflect changes to the outcomes.
- The explanatory notes were updated to clarify the definition of establishment requirements.
- Outcomes and evidence requirements were updated to clarify the difference with unit standard 26239.
- The unit standard was reclassified in the Hospitality Management domain to better reflect its outcome.
