Fire and Rescue Services Industry Training Organisation (Emergency Management Qualifications – (EMQUAL)) reviewed and republished the qualifications listed above in June 2012. The expiring versions of the qualifications have now been published.

Date expiring versions published

June 2013

Summary of review and consultation process

The focus of the review was to ensure that the qualifications reflect the current training needs of New Zealand's fire and rescue personnel. Changes within the fire and rescue services industry resulted in some learners being unable to achieve the previous qualification requirements. It was agreed, with NZQA, that these qualifications could be reviewed outside the mandatory Qualifications Review Schedule.

The review was based on comments received from the industry as a result of an extensive consultation and feedback process. Industry representatives comprising of stakeholders and EMQUAL's Industry Technical Advisory Group considered the comments. Representatives then recommended and endorsed the changes.

Main changes resulting from the review

General transition

The above qualifications have been reviewed and designated expiring. The last date to meet their requirements is 31 December 2014 at which point the qualifications will be designated discontinued.

People currently working towards one of the replaced qualifications may either complete the requirements for that qualification by 31 December 2014 or transfer the results to the replacement qualification.

It is anticipated that no existing candidates will be disadvantaged by these transition arrangements. However, anyone who feels that they have been disadvantaged may appeal to the EMQUAL at the address below. Appeals will be considered on a case by case basis.
