Guidance information

- 1 The basic principles underpinning tikanga are common, but while there are some constants, the details of performance of tikanga, and their explanation, may differ. These differences may be at a rohe, iwi, hapū, whānau, or marae level. The context of the learning should include the tikanga of the local mana whenua (if capable), but learning others' tikanga is also encouraged. This is in order to enrich and enhance understanding of tikanga, and the associated reo.
- 2 Definition
Tikanga are Māori values, processes and practices exercised by Māori in their daily lives. These reflect the concepts upon which they are based and provide guidelines for appropriate behaviour and conduct in Māori society. They also prescribe consequences for any breaches or when tikanga is not followed. They can be particular to a rohe, iwi, hapū, whānau, marae, or hāpori.

Resource support may include, but is not limited to:
Appropriate websites.

- 4 Certain events are recounted as turning points or critical events in the history and development of a hapū or iwi, and often characterise the hapū or iwi. For example, key battles, events associated with the taking of land, births and deaths of rangatira. These events are often immortalised in whakataukī, whakatauākī, pepeha, mōteatea, whakairo, and other modes of expression.

- 5 It is envisaged that the requirements for this unit standard be met by describing the same hapū or iwi throughout.
- 6 All sources of information must be referenced.
