Guidance Information

- 1 The basic principles underpinning tikanga are common, but while there are some constants, the details of performance of tikanga, and their explanation, may differ. These differences may be at a rohe, iwi, hapū, whānau, or marae level. The context of the learning should include the tikanga of the local mana whenua (if capable), but learning others' tikanga is also encouraged. This is in order to enrich and enhance understanding of tikanga, and the associated reo.
- 2 The resource support listed is given as a guide only and is not intended to be in any way prescriptive. It is acknowledged that different areas may have their own written and unwritten repositories of knowledge relevant to this unit standard. Resource support may include, but is not limited to:
Appropriate websites

- 3 Participation and recognition of te Tiriti o Waitangi (te Tiriti) by hapū and iwi throughout the country varied considerably. Most of the contact with Pākehā up until the introduction of te Tiriti had occurred in the North. Te Tiriti was not signed in every area – indeed some hapū and iwi refused to sign the document.
- 4 The impact of the Declaration of Independence on the dispossession of Māori land should be examined in the comparison with other methods used to ensure the transfer of land from Māori to Pākehā ownership.
