Explanatory notes

- 1 Definitions

Advanced hair colour work refers to innovative and progressive colour work that reflects current or emerging trends. It includes methods and/or techniques that go beyond basic colour application, and may include some partial and/or block colour work.

Legislative requirements refer to the obligations of the employer and/or employee under the Health and Safety at Work Act 2015, Privacy Act 1993, Copyright Act 1994, and Health (Hairdressers) Regulations 1980.

Portfolio refers to a visual presentation of a selection of advanced hair colour work, which could include, for example, written text, photographs, videos, CDs, drawings.
- 2 In this unit standard all work must comply with legislative requirements, manufacturers’ instructions (including allergy testing), and cultural protocols, and must ensure optimum hair condition and maximum client comfort at all times.
- 3 For the purpose of this unit standard, advanced hair colouring must go beyond foundation colour work and cannot be full head foils or streaks through a cap.
- 4 It is recommended that the candidate has attended a minimum of one hairdressing company advanced colour course prior to assessment against this unit standard.
- 5 For the purpose of this unit standard, male and/or female models may be used.

6 Range

The portfolio must contain evidence of a minimum of five different examples of advanced hair colour work that the candidate has completed, which must include but are not limited to – one high level lightening effect, one high vibrancy effect. One example of advanced hair colour work must be the candidate's entry in an international, national, or New Zealand Association of Registered Hairdressers competition.

Please note

Providers must be granted consent to assess against standards (accredited) by NZQA, or an inter-institutional body with delegated authority for quality assurance, before they can report credits from assessment against unit standards or deliver courses of study leading to that assessment.

Industry Training Organisations must be granted consent to assess against standards by NZQA before they can register credits from assessment against unit standards.

Providers and Industry Training Organisations, which have been granted consent and which are assessing against unit standards must engage with the moderation system that applies to those standards.

Consent requirements and an outline of the moderation system that applies to this standard are outlined in the Accreditation and Moderation Action Plan (AMAP). The AMAP also includes useful information about special requirements for organisations wishing to develop education and training programmes, such as minimum qualifications for tutors and assessors, and special resource requirements.
