- 3 Definitions
Needs, in the context of this unit standard, are those relating to gender, culture, ethnicity, age, religion, philosophy, learning, disability, socio-economic group, career options, language, whānau, hapū, iwi and Māori communities.
Outcomes refer to the specific characterisations of what an agency or sector is working to achieve for New Zealanders. Outcomes are the end result and describe why an agency or sector is delivering certain interventions on behalf of New Zealanders.
Outputs refer to the final goods and services that are produced by one organisation for use by another organisation or individual. Outputs define the major products or services, the timeframe in which they are delivered and the cost to deliver them. Outputs are the building blocks used to achieve and measure impacts and outcomes.
Policy frameworks refer to a policy management and investment system that is intended to provide a guide or coordinated approach for the development and expansion of public policy.
Target group refers to a specific population intended as beneficiaries of a programme. In the context of this unit standard a target group may be, but is not limited to, Māori people of a certain age group, gender, marital status, whānau, hapū, iwi and Māori communities.
