Develop respectful, reciprocal and responsive relationships with children in an ECE service

People credited with this unit standard are able to:
- describe strategies that help to develop relationships with children in an ECE service;
- use and evaluate strategies to develop respectful, reciprocal and responsive relationships with a child in an ECE service.

This unit standard is intended primarily for assessment within programmes leading to the New Zealand Certificate in Early Childhood Education and Care (Level 3) [Ref: 2849].

This unit standard is an introduction to education and care of children in an ECE service. It is designed for people who intend to work, or are working with, children in an ECE service. People working in the wider education sector may also be interested in this unit standard. This unit standard will prepare people to advance to a higher level of study in ECE.

Explanatory notes

1. Candidates for this unit standard should be familiar with the intent of Te Tiriti o Waitangi, which informs guidelines, procedures, and practices in the ECE sector.

2. Definitions

   Children refers to the three ‘broad age groups’ as defined in Te Whāriki for children. These are overlapping age categories and are defined as:
   - infant – birth to 18 months;
   - toddler – one year to three years;
   - young child – two and a half years to school entry age.

   An early childhood education (ECE) service refers to a centre-based service, hospital-based service, or home-based service. The home-based service may be nominated by the child’s parent, be the child’s own home, or the home of the educator.

   A reciprocal and responsive relationship is a relationship involving mutual, or complementary reactions and responses between two parties, where one party (often the adult) reacts quickly and sensitively to the interests, observations, or experiences of another party (often the child).

Consent and Moderation Requirements (CMR) reference 0135

Please note
Providers must be granted consent to assess against standards (accredited) by NZQA, before they can report credits from assessment against unit standards or deliver courses of study leading to that assessment.

Industry Training Organisations must be granted consent to assess against standards by NZQA before they can register credits from assessment against unit standards.

Providers and Industry Training Organisations, which have been granted consent and which are assessing against unit standards must engage with the moderation system that applies to those standards.

Requirements for consent to assess and an outline of the moderation system that applies to this standard are outlined in the Consent and Moderation Requirements (CMR). The CMR also includes useful information about special requirements for organisations wishing to develop education and training programmes, such as minimum qualifications for tutors and assessors, and special resource requirements.
