- Iwi tradition is encouraged in assessment against this unit standard. Iwi tradition refers to kōrero, performance features and/or styles unique to an iwi. It is expected that candidates study their own iwi traditions or those of the local iwi. Other iwi or hapū variations may be explored to enrich and enhance understanding.
- This unit standard is intended to assess essential knowledge and skills required to ensure the survival of taonga puoro.

- 4 For an achieved grade, ākonga must demonstrate knowledge of whānau taonga puoro.

For a merit grade, ākonga must demonstrate in-depth knowledge of whānau taonga puoro. This will be evidenced through providing information on the characteristics of each whānau taonga puoro.

For an excellence grade, ākonga must demonstrate comprehensive knowledge of whānau taonga puoro. This will be evidenced through comprehensively describing the inter-connections between the different whānau taonga puoro through the atua Māori.

- 6 Glossary
Appearance refers to physical characteristics that may include shape, colour, texture, carving;
 materials used for taonga puoro may include types of rākau, hue, bone, shell, stone Whānau of taonga puoro refers to the groups of instruments associated with a particular atua Māori and related by sound origin. For the purposes of this standard ngā atua Māori include but are not limited to Tānemāhuta, Tangaroa, Tāwhirimātea, Hineraukatauri, and Hinepūtehue. Evidence of two taonga from each atua is required (i.e. a total of 10).
