Guidance information

1 Definitions

New Māori music is a fusion of traditional Māori music elements with any other music genre. It has vast and dynamic vocal traditions, profound traditional Māori instrumental traditions (taonga pūoro), and performance. It incorporates vocal traditions of various devices available to composers for kaupapa Māori.

Music eras refer to the following time periods:

- World Wars I and II (e.g. Paraire Tomoana, Tuini Ngawai, Ratana Band)
- Post-war 1950s (e.g. Dance Bands, Show Bands, Tui Teka, Dalvanus Prime, Kiri Te Kanawa, Howard Morrison Quartet, Dennis Marsh)
- Late 20th century (e.g. Herbs, Aotearoa, Black Cats, Te Mokai, Iwi)
- 21st century (e.g. Maisey Rika, Rob Ruha, Troy Kingi, Ria Hall).

Composition refers to original pieces of music or new arrangements of existing compositions.

Kaupapa refers to the theme, mood, and purpose of the new Māori music.

Māori artist refers to a recognised individual artist or group, of Māori descent, that has contributed to the development of Māori music.

Taonga pūoro refers to traditional Māori instruments.

2 Demonstrate in-depth knowledge of new Māori music will be evidenced through:

- describing Māori artists (brief musical biography) and linking them with their music era(s).

3 Demonstrate comprehensive knowledge of new Māori music will be evidenced through:

- describing music eras (brief historical overview of each), and providing an example of a new Māori music composition from each

- describing the significance of features (in terms of distinguishing as Māori), used in each of the compositions.
